Reading Instruction for Part 2 of the Study Guide

The courses comprising the Bachelor Programme in Jazz Music are grouped in 5 categories:

- 1. Principal Study and the related subsidiary subjects
- 2. Ensembles (incl. choirs and projects)
- 3. Music Theory and Music History Courses
- 4. Education and Entrepreneurship
- 5. Individual Credits (incl. electives)

In this part of the Study Guide you will find the descriptions of the courses under categories 2-4.

Descriptions of Principal Subjects and related subsidiary subjects (category 1) can be found in Part 1 of this Study Guide.

Descriptions of the electives (which form a part of the category 5) are also not included here, but can be found on the Intranet (under Post-propaedeutic phase Jazz → Individual Credits).

You can navigate directly to all courses by using the function “Ctrl+Click” on the Contents page of this document.

ENSEMBLES

This department focuses on jazz and all types of music related to it. The objective of the ensembles is to provide students with the necessary practical experience with their instrument and to stimulate their individual creativity so that they can successfully function in the various types of music common to their instrument. Because instrumental and individual needs can be rather diverse, a wide variety of ensembles are offered. In addition to the various jazz and improvisation groups, big bands and choirs, students can participate in rhythm and blues, Brazilian, Afro-Cuban, flamenco, pop and various crossover groups.

During the first year, the emphasis in all principal subjects will be on ensemble skills in jazz and related types of music. All students are assigned to one of the ensemble-skills groups. Additionally, all instrumentalists are assigned to one of the jazz groups and in some cases to one of the principal subject-based groups, such as the trumpet group, the trombone group, the guitar group, or one of the choirs. For bass guitarists, guitarists, pianists and percussionists, these are supplemented by a six-month-long funk/crossover group.

Coordinator of Jazz ensembles is David de Marez Oyens, tel: 020-5277533

Place of Ensembles in the programme

While a number of ensembles are required, students can sometimes choose the teacher. In addition, students can take certain ensembles as electives, thereby determining the direction of their studies. By choosing 'Student Ensemble', students can put together an ensemble themselves, determine an objective and/or repertoire, and choose a teacher. In this case, it is important that they consult all those involved before signing up before the summer. Such an ensemble can, with the coordinator's consent, serve as an alternative to one of the required ensembles. Students in a partially or fully formed group may also register for one of the regular ensembles and, in that case, will be given priority.

Please consult the Ensemble Diagram by Principal Subject (below) when making your choice. The diagram shows which ensembles are obligatory (v) and the type of ensemble from which you may (f), and sometimes are required to (k), choose. Credits are awarded per ensemble; be sure that your choice will indeed allow you to earn the credits that you need. Wherever possible, please indicate a second choice so that you can be placed in another ensemble if your preferred group is already full.

Prior to final enrolment, the student's principal study teacher and/or department head is sometimes consulted. Under certain circumstances, students may even be appointed to a particular ensemble for the purpose of completing the group.

NB: Participating in an ensemble creates a commitment as the students' attendance is essential. If a student is truly unable to attend a session or rehearsal, he/she will be responsible, in consultation with the teacher, for finding an adequate replacement whom he/she must instruct in advance for the purpose of ensuring continuity. Afterwards, the student will ask the replacement to inform him/her of the agreements and developments made.

Failure to do so could lead to the withholding of credits.

Ensemble Diagram by Principal Subject

Below you can find the diagram showing the ensemble requirements and possibilities by principal subject.

* / - compulsory, this course/subject only one period, in some occasions a "*" is added. In this case two periods are compulsory.

*N = compulsory choose one or more normal course periods out of the "L" marked options.

1. Jazz and Improvisation Groups

Second-Year Jazz Group

These lessons are based on the 'standard' jazz repertoire, and will cover group skills, improvisation, transposing, reading, modulating, practical ear training, instant arranging and playing by heart, among other things.

Course Details

teacher	Ruud Ouwehand
term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	ca. 8
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term, 3 for the whole year

'A tune a Week': composing as an exercise

Inspired by the publication A Tune a Day by the Brazilian composer Hermeto Pascoal the objective of this course is to exercise your composing skills in a very practical fashion. Every week one of the members of the ensemble has to compose a piece for the whole group. No genre limitations will be set, and a lot of attention will be given to how to produce a good melody, a good set of signature chords and how to re-arrange a piece to a level of unexpected quality.

Course Details

teacher	Yuri Honing
term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	ca. 8
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2

Jazz Octet

The octet gives all the band members much opportunity to solo. The existing repertoire consists of composers such as Rob van Bavel, Cees Slinger, Chuck Israels and Phil Woods, but students can also bring their own arrangements.

Course Details

teacher	Juan Martinez
term	1st and 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week; 1 term for rhythm section
class size	8 (tpt, alt, ten, trb, bar, pno, cbs, slw)
requirement	for advanced students
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term, 3 for the whole year

Dave Pell Octet

Central in this course is Dave Pell' Cool Jazz Octet. Dave Pell was an American jazz saxophonist who became most known from his cool jazz octet in the fifties, in which he played tenor saxophone. Great musicians participated in this fantastic octet including Mel Lewis, Pepper Adams, Benny Carter, Art Pepper, Don Fagerquist, Red Mitchell and Marty Paich. The arrangements, done by i.a. Bill Holman, Shorty Rogers, Andre Previn and Marty Paich, are all perfectly set up (in the cool jazz style).

Course Details

teacher	Erik Veldkamp
term	1st and 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week;
class size	8 (trumpet, trombone, tenor saxophone, baritone saxophone, guitar, piano, contrabass, drums)
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term

Jazz Group

In addition to hard-bop, modal jazz and the music of Herbie Hancock and Chick Corea, this ensemble focuses on arrangements and/or compositions made by the students and the teacher.

Course Details

teacher	Rob van Bavel
term	1st and/or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	6-8
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term, 3 for the whole year

Tristano Clinic Group

Lennie Tristano was a jazz pianist and composer who became a very influential teacher designing his own method for jazz improvisation. Many great jazz musicians such as Lee Konitz, Warne Marsh, Bill Evans and many others have spent years studying with Tristano. His influence is still present in the playing of musicians like Mark Turner and others and his method offers an endless variety of ways to approach jazz- harmony.

In this course we will listen to his music, study some of his exercises, we will transcribe and study exemplary jazz solos that Tristano gave as homework to his students and of course we will be playing his compositions, mainly alternative themes on existing chord changes.

The requirements for this ensemble are affinity with jazz, an advanced playing level and enough time (one hour a day) to study themes, exercises and transcriptions and practice.

Course Details

teacher	Jasper Blom
----------------	-------------

term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	8-11
requirement	passing ATV2 (for older years bachelor students and master students)
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2

Contemporary Ensemble

This ensemble focuses on the music of Wayne Shorter, Herbie Hancock, Dave Holland and Ornette Coleman. While we play their compositions the emphasis will lay on the use of auxiliary harmonies and modal improvisation techniques.

Course Details

teacher	Yuri Honing
term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	ca. 8
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term, 3 for the whole year

Composition Group

In this lesson, students compose or arrange their own music along with accompaniment. Different composition techniques are addressed and diverse forms are used, from the traditional jazz forms to the structured/free improvisation forms. Students are also encouraged to give suggestions about the compositions of others in the group. This ensemble is only open to students of the higher years who have the time and discipline to take part actively every week. Students are expected to write a new composition every three weeks, each one in a new style. Credits are only awarded if the assignments are completed within the given time frame.

Course Details

teacher	Yaniv Nachum
term	1st and possibly 2 nd term, 1,5 hour
class size	8-11
requirement	passing ATV2 (for older years bachelor students and master students)
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term, 3 for the whole year

Monk Group

Thelonious Monk was one of the founders of bebop and is considered to be one of the giants of jazz. His playing and writing were unique and he made some major contributions to the standard jazz repertoire.

This ensemble focuses entirely on Monk compositions, there is no sheet music, everybody will play from memory. Additionally we will study and transcribe some of his voicings, listen to his music and watch the documentary Straight no Chaser about the life and music of Thelonious Monk.

Course Details

teacher	Jasper Blom
term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	8-11
requirement	passing ATV2 (for older years bachelor students and master students)
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2

Pre-Bebop Group

This Pre-Bebop-ensemble focusses on hot music and swing. By analyzing the music of Louis Armstrong, Lester Young, Charlie Christian and other great musicians from the pre-bebop period, enlarges your improvisation and composition skills. Studying the roots of Jazz, deepens your understanding of harmony, melody and rhythm.

subjects discussed include: collective improvisation, riffs, claves, mixed meter, melody-based improvisation, question and answer, and transcription.

Course Details

teacher	Simon Rigter
term	1st or 2nd semester
class size	ca. 8
final assignment	writing at least one tune influenced/inspired by the music of the pre-bebop era
examination	being present (min. 80%), evaluations during the lessons, and a final concert
credits	2

Wayne Shorter Group

Saxophonist and composer Wayne Shorter is a living jazz legend. His influence reaches as far as the bands of Horace Silver, Art Blakey's Jazz Messengers, The (Second) Miles Davis Quintet and Weather Report. Since 2000 he has led the successful Wayne Shorter Quartet with pianist Danilo Perez, bass player John Patitucci and drummer Brian Blade. Compositions like Footprints, JuJu, ESP and Speak No Evil are well-known standards in the jazz repertoire; his creative vision on jazz is beyond category, and his approach for many musicians a great source of inspiration.

In this ensemble we will play pieces from his extensive repertoire and study the development of his philosophy, improvisations and interplay concepts from his earliest recordings to his work of today, by means of listening, transcriptions, articles (for instance the biography Footprints, by Michelle Mercer), and interviews.

Course Details

teacher	Tineke Postma
term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	ca. 8
requirements	the student should have enough time to learn to play compositions from memory and do assignments
final assignment examination	writing a piece and/or (part of an) arrangement of a Shorter tune being present (min. 80%), evaluations during the lessons, and a final concert
credits	2 for a term. Credits are only awarded if the assignments are completed within the given time frame

Single Page Tunes

The easy, inviting tunes are the ones you keep playing. Tunes that are: short and easy enough to play on a session, allow you to have fun right away, are original and feel fresh at the same time. That's what we will try to develop in this ensemble by testing ideas, revisiting and perfecting tunes using each others feedback. Everybody should have about one set of material by the end of the semester.

Course Details

teacher	Jesse van Ruller
term	2 nd term
class size	ca. 8
final assignment examination	writing at least three single page tunes being present (min. 80%), evaluations during the lessons, and a final concert
credits	2. Credits are only awarded if the assignments are completed within the given time frame.

The Music of Joe Henderson

Jazz saxophonist and composer Joe Henderson is well known for his distinct powerful yet warm and graceful sound. Although Henderson's earliest recordings were marked by a strong hard-bop influence, his playing encompassed not only the bebop tradition, but rhythm and blues, latin, and avant-garde as well.

This ensemble will explore Henderson's style and composition and give an overview of his musical development from his early recordings to his trademark recordings during the 90s..

Course Details

teacher	Yaniv Nachum
term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	8-11
requirement assessment	passing ATV2 (for older years bachelor students and master students) attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2

John Coltrane Group

The focus of this group lies on the music of the John Coltrane Quartet and especially the years of his classical quartet, 1962-1965. Compositions like Afro Blu, Impressions, Love Supreme, My Favorite Things, and Meditations will be discussed as well as Coltrane's approach to modal jazz and superimposed changes.

Course Details

teacher	Yaniv Nachum
term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	8-11
requirement	passing ATV2 (for older years bachelor students and master students)
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2

Ornette Coleman: The shape of Jazz to come

Saxophonist Ornette Coleman is unarguably one of most important figures in the avant-garde and what became to be known as 'free jazz' style. Coleman's approach to improvisation and composition brought new sounds, new colors and new attitude to what jazz has become. This ensemble will look into Coleman's approach to composition, improvisation and Coleman's use of time and rhythm. The material will revolve mostly around the 'Atlantic period'.

Course Details

teacher	Yaniv Nachum
term	1st and/or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	8-11
requirement	passing ATV2 (for older years bachelor students and master students)
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2

'Out of the box'

*Out of what f***ing box anyway*

The students will get weekly composition assignments focusing on various composition and arranging techniques. This will invite them to explore new ways of composing and arranging and to discover new and fresh views. As a result students will build up authentic repertoire and a more personal approach to music.

During the lessons the students will be introduced to several techniques. They will get ample opportunity to play together and to analyze their playing thoroughly.

Course Details

teacher	Harmen Fraanje
term	1st and/or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	ca. 8
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the concerts credits

2 for one term, 3 for the whole year

Instant Composing

Instant composing. The skills vital to playing this music are worked on, as well as general skills required for playing music together. For example Musical awareness: This is the ability to introduce, develop and convey music which is unfamiliar to fellow band members (initiative), and the ability to be able to play music from the initiative of others (following). Focused Listening is also worked on: The ability to listen to certain aspects which are important for the music.

Course Details

teacher	Hermen Fraanje
term	1st and/or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	max. 10
requirement	for 3rd and 4th-year students. Participants must be prepared to play by ear
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term, 3 for the whole year

'Amsterdam Real Book' Group

In the 1970s and 1980s in Amsterdam there was a lot of research done into the relationship between composition and improvisation. The composers involved, Misha Mengelberg, Willem Breuker, Guus Janssen, Theo Loevendie, Maarten van Regteren Altena, Maurice Horsthuis, etc., were trained in both the classical and, to some extent, the jazz traditions. They developed their own aesthetics and systems of organization.

In this group you will experience some of their pieces as well as those of later generations (Ab Baars, Cor Fuhler, Eric Boeren, Joost Buis), and others who influenced and were influenced by these developments (Sean Bergin, Franky Douglas, John Zorn, Michael Moore).

The students will also learn about free improvisation, finding your voice, and role in the total soundscape.

Course Details

teacher	Michael Moore
term	1st and/or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	ca. 8
assessment	attendance (min. 80%) and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term, 3 for the whole year

Sixties Miles: A Modal Approach

At the end of the fifties Miles Davis set the trend by reintroducing the modal approach with Kind of Blue. With his second great quintet, with Shorter, Hancock, Carter and Williams he recorded many new tunes with this approach, mainly new works by Shorter.

During the live concerts though, Miles kept using the American Songbook as a source for repertoire but used the new modal techniques to find alternative ways to play these familiar songs. With Live at the Plugged Nickel as main source this course will provide more insights in a way of playing that became pretty rare.

Course Details

teacher	Yuri Honing
term	1st or 2nd semester, 1,5 hours per week
class size	8 - 11
assessment	attendance and evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term

'Match Fixing': Classical repertoire group

This course focuses on ways to incorporate elements from the works of great Classical composers (such as Scriabin, Beethoven, Richard Strauss, Guillaume de Machaut) in your own music. You will discover new things about form, harmony, melody or rhythm. Moreover, you will find a tasteful way to apply the essence of these works in your own arrangements and/or compositions.

Course Details

teacher	Joris Roelofs
term	1st or 2nd semester
class size	ca. 8
final assignment	writing a piece and/or arrangement using at least one key element (harmony, melody, theme, form) of at least one of the five composers discussed
assessment	attendance (min. 80%), evaluations during the lessons and the final concert
credits	2 for one term. Credits are only awarded if the assignments are completed within the given time frame.

Herbie Nichols group

'One of jazz's most tragically overlooked geniuses, Herbie Nichols was a highly original piano stylist and a composer of tremendous imagination and eclecticism. He signed with Blue Note and recorded three brilliant piano trio albums from 1955-1956, adding another one for Bethlehem in late 1957. His music - a blend of Dixieland, swing, West Indian folk, Monk-like angularity, European classical harmonies via Satie and Bartók, and unorthodox structures - was simply too unclassifiable and complex to make much sense to jazz audiences of the time.'

- from the artist biography of Steve Huey on allmusic.com

The times are changing and the music of Nichols is increasingly being played and appreciated. I have been working with Nichol' fantastic compositions since pianist Misha Mengelberg orchestrated several pieces of piano-trio music of Nichols for the Instant Composer's Pool Orchestra. The pieces have become an integral component of many contemporary ensemble' repertoires. In this ensemble, we will play, arrange and analyze Nichol' interesting and quirky post-bop-structures.

2./3. Piano/Guitar Trios

Piano Trio / Quartet with Voice

During these lessons both vocalists and accompaniment get the chance to choose songs, to study and play solos with song standards from the jazz repertoire. Included are: being attentive, musical interaction and arranging for and within a group. The divergent styles and voices of the singers in the group demand a very specific approach in the accompaniment. What is the relation between the lyrics of the song and the accompaniment? How to play a rubato verse?

Guitarists are also welcome to participate.

NB: It is also possible to sign up with an existing trio, as long as this is discussed with all involved.

Flamenco Group

The complex rhythmical structures are brought into practice after several introductory lessons. This course is focused on contemporary flamenco: 'flamenco de hoy', which shares musical dimensions with latin, jazz, North African and Eastern music cultures.

Especially for:

- 1) guitarists who would like to specialize in flamenco
- 2) bass guitarists
- 3) percussionists.

Also for saxophonists or pianists, and anyone willing to clap along with the palmas.

Patempa 'follow-up': Building your Musical Body

Patempa*: building your musical body is a physical approach that aims to embody groove and improve your ensemble playing. A number of you joined the introduction to patempa last semester.

Using stepping, clapping and singing, playing shakers, cans and sticks, the introduction course focused on discovering musical parameters in a physical way. The objective of this course is to deepen your experiences and find understanding beyond 'this is fun' or 'challenging'.

*Patempa is short for 'practical approach to enhancing musical performance abilities' developed by Bart Fermie.

Introduction to Advanced Rhythm

The jazz of today asks for a radical new approach in rhythmical training. Every student will eventually come in contact with music from, (or music which has been influenced by) Dave Holland, Zappa and Irakere. Or elements of music from the Balkans, India, or Africa. With the help of the South-Indian system of rhythmical syllables (Solkattu), students learn how to play poly-rhythm and phrases in quint- and septuplets, and strengthen their feel for time. Practical exercises bring students to a higher level of rhythmical accuracy without losing the feel for phrasing or musical emotion.

Advanced Rhythm - Improvisation

For students who want to develop a wider view on the developments of the structural and rhythmical possibilities of improvisation, and a strong internal feel for time. The rhythmical elements of South Indian music theory give a starting point to the flexible yet structured incorporation of polyrhythmic, poly-timing, anti metric and variation with permutation systems. But also the development of a feeling for form and structure. The syllabus can span one to four course years. The raga-system, from the second year, shows the way to a more open use of pitch and tone colour within improvisation. During the last two months of the year students will organize a group, or participate in one (trio - quintet), with which will they prepare a guided improvisation, which will be performed at the end-of-year concert.

Afrikaanse Percussion Fusion Group

In this ensemble students play and improvise West-African rhythms on jembes, sabars and their own instruments. With the traditional percussion music from countries such as Senegal and Mali as a starting point students will experience music in this fusion band in a new way. The West-African traditional music offers many opportunities to explore polyrhythm, grooves and cyclic patterns. Students will learn in this group to adapt African traditional music to their own instrument or voice. All participants get to arrange and orchestrate these rhythms for the group, thus creating a new and unique fusion of African and Western traditions. Instrumentalists and singers develop skills in adapting African traditional music to their own instruments or voices.

Tabla Fusion Group

In this group students will discover and experiment with North Indian rhythms and melodies on tabla or on their own instruments, and with singing the tala and rhythmic compositions. The multi-layered complex rhythms will allow students to experience rhythm and music in a new way. Instrumentalists and vocalists will develop skills in translating Indian traditional music to their own instruments and gain insight into the music from North India.

5. Music from Other Cultures: Brazilian

Brazilian Singing Workshop

This course is meant for 2nd and 3rd year singing students. During the course, students are introduced to the Brazilian repertoire in gradually increasing levels of difficulty. Various styles are used, including bossa nova, samba, partido alto and baião. Brazilian is the only language used for singing, because the rhythm of the language is vital to the music.

Students are judged on:

- * pronunciation of Brazilian Portuguese
- * how the lyrics are 'experienced'
- * timing and articulation appropriate to the style being sung in
- * how well percussive patterns are translated into singing
- * ensemble skills
- * level and execution of repertoire
- * stage presentation

Vocal Groups (general description)

Taking part in one of the vocal groups is compulsory for all vocalists for the duration of at least three years. Aside from that, an accompanying trio is also needed to be able to accompany the choirs for concerts.

Students of the jazz voice study programme may participate in four vocal groups: Vocal Basic, Vocal Inchoiry, Vocal's Own and Vocal Summit. The composition of the groups depends on the student's year of study and level. This will enable students to chose their groups according to their principal subjects (Vocal Basic) and find a challenge in groups of a higher level, such as Vocals' Own.

The student will have two vocal group lessons per week in the second term. This means that there will be extra time scheduled, which the group may use to work independently, to work with the ensembles teacher or with the Vocal Summit group. The theme per group will be chosen depending on the composition of the group and the experience and interests of the students.

Vocal groups will present themselves at a combo evening in December and the Open Day in January. The groups will complete the study year in April/May with a final concert in school.

Vocal Basic

A vocal group for all first-years of the voice study programme. This ensemble will work on the beginnings of close harmony in the broadest sense. The students will become acquainted with close harmony is and how to apply it in this ensemble. The students will participate in this group for one year.

Vocal Inchoiry

Vocal groups for second- and third-years of the voice study programme.

In addition to singing in the group, there is the possibility in the second term to form larger or smaller groups in order to work on musical preferences, level, etc. This will enable students to find their challenges in the field of ensemble singing.

The students will participate in this group for two years, unless they are asked to join or audition for Vocal Top.

Vocal's Own

This ensemble consists of four to five voice students from the jazz department and possibly the classical department, who have been asked to join or have auditioned for the group. The students in this ensemble are greatly responsible themselves for selecting music, rehearsing and performing, for creating and developing musical ideas. A large amount of self-discipline and independence is required. Vocal Top is the starting point of a professional attitude necessary to work in the profession.

In 2014-2015 there are plans for a Swingle Singers project.

The students who have been selected will participate in this group for one year.

Pat Metheny Electric Group

Being one of the foremost guitarists of his generation, Pat Metheny took composing seriously from the beginning. Highly influential for over four decades and expanding his territory from jazz to pop to fusion and free-jazz, Metheny does not accept any borders.

This ensemble will play the Metheny songbook from fairly easy to rather complicated songs. Coached by saxophonist/composer Yuri Honing, who worked with Metheny himself, all aspects of his music, the rhythm, harmony and his unique sense for good melody will get the attention it deserves.

Advanced Crossover Group

The objective of these groups is to allow students to bring their own ideas into styles of music that are related to jazz, such as pop and latin. Singers must bring their own pieces, and instrumentalists can bring their own pieces if they choose to. Students are required to arrange their chosen piece, and this occurs under supervision. This is completed by a performance at the end of each semester.

trumpet	Erik Veldkamp
trombone	Martijn Sohier, Ilja Reijngoud
rhythm	Lucas van Merwijk, Johan Plomp en/of Frans van der Hoeven, Haye Jellema

NB: Auditions for rhythm section players will be held in the third week of June.

9. Student Ensemble

Students have the possibility to organise a band themselves. Please discuss this with the group before signing up for this course. This group may be part of your Music Business & Career project.

The student who signs up will be considered as the group leader. He/she is responsible for all communications to the group members, the band coach, the Bookings Department for booking a rehearsal room, and the ensembles coordinator for the half-term and final concerts. The group leader is also responsible for preparing, organizing and leading the rehearsals.

The group may get a set weekly rehearsal time, and can choose from a selection of teachers every year. The teacher is not the leader who decides what happens, but a kind of coach who gives feedback roughly six to eight times a year. After one semester the progress of the group is reviewed, and depending on the development, they will be allowed to continue to do the next semester.

MUSIC THEORY COURSES and MUSIC HISTORY

The final examination for all instrumental and vocal principal subjects, as well as the principal subjects of arranging and music theory will all include the music-theory subjects of general music theory, ear-training, harmony, analysis, arranging, harmony at the piano and the subject of music history, with one exception: the subject of harmony at the piano will not be included in the final examination for the principal subject of piano. Therefore the below courses must be finished before the student can take part in the final examination.

Music Theory and Music History in the Propaedeutic Phase

The propaedeutic phase includes the following subjects:

- General Music Theory
- General Theoretical Subjects (ATV)
- Solfège Practicum (Ear Training)
- Rhythmic Ear Training
- Harmony at the Piano
- Jazz History

These subjects will be continued in the post-propaedeutic phase, with two exceptions: general music theory and rhythmic training. In the third year students will get the chance to study three subjects in depth; one of the courses on arranging, one of the analysis courses and additional subjects, and one of the music-history courses.

Additional information can be found below, in the Chapter “Music Theory and Music History in the Post-propaedeutic phase”.

Important:

The following General Provisions apply to the theory and history classes:

* Class attendance and sitting for examinations is required of every student unless the Board of Directors has granted him/her exemption (please see (7) below).

* The coordinator of the music-theory subjects/music history will ensure that a complete examination schedule for the music-theory subjects and music history is available no later than 15 April of every course year. Students are responsible for acquainting themselves with the examination dates applicable to them by consulting a yearly overview published at the beginning of each year and the aforementioned examination schedule. Students will not be notified individually of the examination dates. The coordinator will also be responsible for organizing the examinations. Committees will always consist of two members - as a rule, the student's own teacher and a fellow teacher, who will also function as chairman. The assessment and results ('satisfactory' or 'unsatisfactory') will be entered on an examination report to be signed by the chairman. The candidate will be provided with the original report and a copy will be filed with the study secretariat, who keeps a file for every student.

* If, at the end of the course year, a student has not successfully completed one of the courses or course components for one of the subjects referred to in these provisions, he/she will be assigned to the relevant course or course component again in the following course year. Students will be allowed such an opportunity only once. In the case of excessive and unexcused absence, however, the Board of Directors - or the coordinator in consultation with the Board - may decide not to allow the student to take the course a second time, in which case, he/she will be permitted only to resit the examinations.

* Students may be exempted from attending classes and taking examinations in one of the courses or course components referred to in these provisions by:

a. the coordinator of theoretical subjects or a relevant teacher, in consultation with the coordinator, if a student can produce evidence showing that he/she has completed the course or course component in question at another conservatory or by having taken a state examination [staatsexamen]

b. the coordinator and a relevant teacher if, despite a student's inability to produce the evidence required under (a), they believe that the student otherwise demonstrates sufficient knowledge and/or skills with respect to the course/course component for which exemption has been requested.

Exemption is granted by the Board of Directors. Once granted, exemption will be considered equivalent to the student having completed the course component in question. Exemption will be granted by means of the form provided for that purpose, which is available from the study secretariat. Any documentary evidence will be added, along with the exemption form which has been signed by the coordinator and/or the relevant teacher, to the student's file.

General Music Theory

Learning Objectives

The objective of the course is to provide underpinning for both the principal subject and the additional music-theory subjects by providing students with knowledge of and skills relating to the musical material and the corresponding terminology.

Content

The following are addressed: tonal system and notation; metre, rhythm, tempo; scales, keys, tonality and modality; overtones, consonance and dissonance; intervals, triads, seventh chords; articulation and phrasing; dynamics; organology; theory of musical forms; terminology in various languages.

General Theoretical Subjects (“ATV”)

The subjects of ear-training, analysis, harmony and arranging are all taught in parallel in the General Theoretical Subjects course.

Learning Objectives

The objective of the course is to develop students' musical and inner ear (ear training), understanding of musical structure (analysis), harmonic understanding and skill (harmony) and arranging skills (arranging). These four subjects will be taught using an integrated approach whenever possible on the basis of representative pieces from the jazz repertoire.

assessment

1. test in December/January consisting of an ear-training assignment and an analysis/scoring assignment
2. propaedeutic exam late May/early June. This exam takes place on two days, with two assignments of 60 minutes each per day. The four components are: a. ear-training assignment with an MP3 and earphones on the computer b. analysis c. scoring d. harmonizing a given melody. The student may use a keyboard and earphones once to play through the harmonization. All components must be assessed as sufficient, before the final mark can be given.

Ear Training Skills:

Skills: To make a transcription of the following components:

1. leadsheet (melody and chord symbols) of the (part of a) theme from a jazz-related piece
2. solo improvisation
3. a simple arrangement

Contents: The contents of the analysis and harmony components will be put in practice and examined during the ear training lessons.

Analysis:

Skills: To perceive (visually and/or auditively) and to analyse in writing form, melody, harmony, sheet music and arrangements/instrumentation.

Contents:

1. form: all usual forms of the standard repertoire as well as familiar different, irregular forms (also originals)
2. melody: melodic structure. The relationship between melody and harmony.

3. harmony: chord functions, the relationship between chords, vertical structures. The harmonic idiom is the 'classical jazz harmony', pieces from The American Songbook, Real Book and the bebop era.
4. sheet music: to interpret arrangements and/or chord symbols from song books and lead sheets from fake and real books.
5. arrangement/instrumentation: to analyze by ear the composition of an arrangement, to recognize different instruments.

Harmony:

Skills: To write an arrangement with given chord symbols:

1. arrangement of an accompaniment (close arrangement)
2. arrangement with the melody (given melody)

Contents: Function theory, diatonic scale, expanded diatonic scale, simple alterations.

Arranging:

Skills: To invent and write a harmonization:

1. harmonization with chord symbols under a given melody
2. reharmonization of standards

Contents:

To present a method with which a harmonization can be made.

Solfège Practicum (Ear Training)

Learning Objectives

The objective of this course is to develop the student's musical ear by training the musical imagination and to form a broad and solid base for sight-reading, sight-playing and sight-singing.

Content

The exercises cover various techniques for the singing of melodies, chord progressions and separate chords. On the basis of well-known pieces from the jazz repertoire students will develop their musical imagination.

Harmony at the Piano 1

Learning Objective

The objective of this two-year course is to teach students how to use the piano to assist them in developing their understanding of harmony and harmony-related skills.

Contents

The exercises consist of playing:

- * chords and chord progressions
- * settings/arrangements with a given melody in the soprano
- * a small repertoire of jazz standards and originals
- * accompanying a melody

In the first year, students begin with keyboard-orientation exercises followed by simple progressions in the most usual keys. All this is then applied to simple pieces from the jazz repertoire. Subsequently, the exercises, arrangements and repertoire will be gradually expanded.

Jazz Music History

In this course three strongly interrelated subjects are discussed:

- 1) The origins and development of jazz in both the narrow and the wider sense.
- 2) The development of the skills needed to listen to recorded music intelligently and to swiftly and efficiently decode the material.
- 3) Introduction to philosophical aspects connected to becoming a good jazz musician and how discography has documented this.

ad 1) This is the backbone of the course. Starting with its African roots, the course deals with specific black aspects that, in close conjunction, eventually gave rise to a totally new music and a new way of doing things. The historic line is followed and underlined by information about racial strife and connected socio-economic aspects that propelled the music and without which jazz would not have existed.

The strictly historic line of development is followed until the seventies, when lines between jazz and other types of music began to fade. More recent developments are discussed against this backdrop. Apart from CD's, this course uses unique material on film and the Ken Burns videoserries.

ad 2) Next to mastering an instrument, 'understanding what you're hearing' is of paramount importance. Comprehension only through aural information is vital for any jazz musician. A recording is a documentation of a way of doing things; much of that can be transcribed, but every record contains (at least) as much important information that cannot be transcribed. This becomes clear by developing 'Creative Listening' and 'Aural Awareness' whereby historical and sonological details are combined with aspects of style, form, harmony, melody and rhythm to quickly and effectively 'decode' and understand the material. In other words: listening to records is a skill.

ad 3) Being a good instrumentalist or vocalist is one thing; being a good jazz musician is another. Playing jazz is a stylized form of social behavior which involves (collectively and creatively) solving a constantly changing problem of coordination in which just technical skills are not the most important factor.

Both live and on record, jazz history shows us how great musicians excel at precisely that. This course discusses and demonstrates the awareness and musical empathy the student needs for this, how to achieve and maintain development thereof and find out which questions will always need to be asked.

What connects these three subjects is the importance of understanding what has been, what is now, and what has yet to be accomplished. Study, through recordings, of the tradition in all its forms is therefore essential.

Music Theory and Music History in the Post-propaedeutic Phase

For the theory courses of the second year, the choice of courses are limited and the students' time table is made by the coordinator or the scheduler. For the theory subjects of the third year and the ensembles, you can largely determine the content of your study yourself.

When choosing a course, student should always indicate a first and a second choice to keep class sizes and ensemble compositions manageable. If in certain cases you would like to take both courses/ensembles, please indicate this when applying for courses by stating 'extra choice' instead of 'second choice'. You can make your wishes known on the elective courses application form which can be found on intranet (MyAHK). You can submit this until a date in June which will be specified later in the course of the study year. (This deadline is very strict and the forms that arrive after this date cannot be processed.)

In case you think you possibly do not need to take a specific course because of a previous study in which you already covered that topic, please mention that on the application form or get in touch with the contact person for that specific course.

Last but not least, when making your choices it is important to take into account that, before you are admitted to the final exam, you have completed all subjects belonging to your curriculum (i.e. compulsory and electives).

Theory Courses in the 2nd Year

Choices in the second academic year are limited, since all subjects are required. Students are scheduled to take the following courses:

- General Theoretical Subjects
- Solfege Practicum (Ear Training)
- Classical Music History 1
- Classical Music History 2
- English (only for the principal subject Voice)
- Harmony at the Piano 2
- Theoretical subjects for the principal subject Arranging

Only for the course "Harmony at the Piano" which is obligatory for all except the Piano-majors, students may choose the teacher.

General Theoretical Subjects (“ATV”)

The material which was covered in the first year is expanded on in the second year.

Harmony topics ('advanced jazz harmony') that will be covered:

- * modulations (with and without common chord)
- * more complex harmonics, such as octotonics, subdominant alterations, leading-tones, parallel harmony, chromatic basses and minor line-clichés
- * open harmonies that cannot be explained by scale degrees
- * block chords
- * slash chords
- * Coltrane changes
- * analysing arrangements with three parts or more
- * comparative analysis
- * writing an arrangement (with block chords, for instance) for saxophone section (which can eventually be recorded)

Classical Music History 2

This course gives an insight into the modern-classical music of the 20th century. In addition to a comprehensive introduction to some of the most innovative composers, their work and techniques, the course looks at what motivated important trends. In order to gain knowledge and understanding, much time is spent listening to musical examples.

English (only for principal study Voice)

The material covered in the first year is explored at a higher level. More time is spent on the analysis and interpretation of song lyrics. The exam consists of a written section (the content of the whole syllabus) and an oral section (reading out the lyrics for two songs, and a longer piece of prose). This exam takes place at the end of the course year.

Harmony at the piano 2

The material practiced in the first year is expanded and explored at a higher level in the second year. The final exam takes place at the end of the course year. Students can choose a teacher.

The exercises include:

- * chords and chord progressions
- * voicings and arrangements with the melody in the discant
- * a small repertoire of jazz pieces
- * accompanying a melody

This year the repertoire will be expanded and a number of topics will be addressed, such as: block chords, 'drop two voicings', left hand inversions without root and harmonizing a melody without given chords. Topic of the student's choice.

Theory courses for the principal subject Arranging

Instrumentation

During this course, the history of writing for the orchestra is taught in a practical way. Orchestra scores are turned into piano extracts, and piano extracts are orchestrated. The emphasis lies mainly on listening to orchestra pieces while reading along with the score. In the first year ('Around 1800') the composers Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert are central. In the second year ('The 19th Century') the central composers are Wagner, Brahms and Franck. In the third year the composers focused on are Debussy, Stravinsky and Xenakis, among others. The final exam of this course takes place in the third year.

Harmony and analysis of classical music

This two-year course covers the classical repertoire from the baroque era until the early 20th century. Analysis and Harmony are followed chronologically. The harmony taught in this class is based on the classical 4-voice notation that arose from the old contrapuntal styles. In the first year the course includes material up to the simple chromaticism of the early 19th century. In the second year this is expanded and more complex topics are introduced: chromaticism (at a harder level), enharmonicism, new modality etc. which were used in the 19th and early 20th century. This is where it connects with jazz music.

In the first year of the analysis course, works of composers such as Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven and Schubert are covered. In the second year composers such as Chopin, Schumann, Brahms, Tchaikovsky, Debussy, Ravel and Stravinsky.

Counterpoint

In the second year, arranging students begin the course counterpoint. This course is two years long, and focuses on the music from the 16th century (modal counterpoint). The aim is to create compositions with two, three and four voices and to show the difference between cantus-firmus settings and those with imitations.

After the first year it is also possible to follow the course 'Baroque Counterpoint' - although this needs to be discussed with a teacher of the Classical department. This course also takes two years.

Theory Courses in the 3rd Year

After having completed the General Theoretical Subjects at the end of the second year, students are required to study at least three subjects in depth: one from the selection of 'courses in arranging and composition', and two from 'courses in analysis and other subjects'. Students must earn a total of eight credits for the elected components.

Instead of choosing a second subject from the 'Analysis/Other subjects' category, students may enrol on a theory course given in the Classical Department. Please consult the classical post-propaedeutic programme or contact the coordinator of classical theory courses, Ralf Pisters.

In addition to the required electives, students may also sign up for extra subjects, which can be used to earn 'free space' credits. Students should remember that by electing to enrol on a course, they are making a commitment to attend and to complete that course.

Elective component in the category Arranging / composition:

Arranging/songwriting: pop music

In this course we will deal with pop-songwriting in all its stages: putting together chords, melodies and words, making grooves, arranging for backing vocals, horns and strings, recording and production, synth programming, etcetera. The student can pick the main topic of his interest, but the end goal is to get a more or less complete overview of the skills required for pop songwriting.

Two events will be organized for a practical presentation of our work: a presentation concert in the Amsterdam Blue Note, where you can perform your own songs, and an excursion to a pop recording studio, where we will go into the technique of studio sounds and production (amps, microphones, positioning, compressors, mixing etc.), while recording one of our songs.

Students are expected to collect little ideas on a regular basis. In the lessons we investigate how these ideas can be worked out into songs with a good balance between expressive value, musical content and taste. You will also be stimulated to think about the basis of your songwriting: creativity, motivation, musical philosophy. Originality and experimentation is encouraged!

It is important that you have the possibility to experiment with your material, e.g. with a computer or a rehearsing band. Written music is only used as a tool: students are invited to bring recordings or to perform the song in class. The subject of writing lyrics will also be covered, but only in the context of the whole songwriting process.

If writing in the pop idiom it quite new to you, it is strongly recommended that you take the course of Analysis of Po Music in combination with this course.

Composition

In this course various composition techniques will be analyzed, discussed and trained. We will look at different aspects of composing, addressing melody, rhythm, harmony and form. The course runs over two semesters; in the first semester there will be group lessons, which will be concluded with a composition assignment based on the theory. In the second semester you will work by individual appointments on your own material. To complete the course you will have to create a composition with a description of the composition process and the techniques used.

Solo-analysis: 'Telling the Story'

What makes a good melody? How does one design a solo? How can an improvisation be more than just a collection of single ideas? Why do we perceive some solos as complete statements in which everything seems in place? What technical aspects and properties of the music contribute to a sense of logic? In this course we will look at a number of solos and analyze them from these perspectives. We will especially look at the relationship between the improvisation and the theme of the tune. We will see that this relationship is often more intense than we would think.

Bring equipment and earphones to each lesson. Preparation for each class consists of intense listening (preferably through transcription).

Analysis/composition: Film Music

This course consists of the study of film music by composers such as John Barry, Jerry Goldsmith, Bernard Herrman, Ennio Morricone, Nino Rota, John Williams and Hans Zimmer. Different style characteristics and composition techniques will be analysed with the help of examples. The analysis is accompanied by several small composition and arranging assignments. For the final assignment, students are required to write a piece of film music for a certain scene.

Analysis: Big Band

This course consists of looking at different big band arrangements from Thad Jones, Sammy Nestico and Duke Ellington (among others) in an analytical way. Arrangements of the same piece but by different arrangers are compared, and connections are made with other works such as arrangements for smaller groups and classical pieces.

Analysis:Pop Music

Since the Beatles, pop music has developed a unique musical language through a new approach to older musical structures, heavily influenced by technology, pop culture and the non-academic musical education of its makers. And however simple the music may sound, it is in fact a musical language rich in styles, quotations, sounds, and production techniques.

The objective of the course is to learn to recognize and appreciate the musical structures that pop musicians have used. We will get there by listening to (non-commercial) recorded pop music from the 1960s until now and analyzing it.

We will not only look at the traditional musical parameters like melody, harmony and form, but also the typical 'pop' elements: studio production, use of instruments, lyrics, historic context. What is the origin of these rhythms? How did they make the guitar sound like that? What production techniques were used? What are the lyrics about?

It is a good idea to take this course together with the course of "Arranging/songwriting: Pop Music", especially if pop music writing is relatively new to you.

Analysis: Debussy and Ravel

This course focuses on the music of Debussy en Ravel, two composers with a distinctive musical personality. Works will be analysed and discussed from different perspectives.

In de cursus staat uiteraard het diepgaand 'technisch' analyseren van de behandelde stukken voorop. Maar daarbij kijken we ook steeds uit verschillende perspectieven. Hoe is de verhouding tot de (tonale) traditie van de westerse kunstmuziek? Welke muzikale 'vernieuwingen' brengen deze componisten? Wat zijn de wederzijdse invloeden tussen Debussy en Ravel, en de jazz? Ook kijken we naar de sociaal-culturele en historische context waarin deze muziek ontstond en uiteraard naar esthetische aspecten, waarbij we bijvoorbeeld ook nadenken over wat gangbare labels als 'impressionisme' en 'symbolisme' eigenlijk betekenen en of zij ons wel of niet helpen bij het beter begrijpen van deze - fantastisch mooie - muziek.

Advanced Ear Training

'Expanding the Vocabulary - Exploring the (compositional) styles of contemporary pianist-composers like Brad Mehldau, Gerald Clayton and Robert Glasper.'

This course is combining advanced ear training, keyboard harmony and analysis skills to come closer to the harmonic and melodic language of these jazz composers. The intended target group are students who are interested in exploring the language of tonal jazz compositions which, although still rooted in traditional styles, go beyond the bebop and American Songbook styles. We will investigate the patterns and models used in these compositions, how they relate to, and how they were abstracted from models adopted from older jazz, pop and classical styles.

EDUCATION AND ENTREPRENEURSHIP

The Education and Entrepreneurship course is spread out over all four years of the bachelors programme.

Education component consists of the Music Education, Methodology and Internship components.

Entrepreneurship component consists of Mentoring, Introduction to Education and Career, and Music Management.

Learning objectives

The Education programme gives students an understanding of the most important aspects of teaching their own principal subject and small ensembles. They may also specialize in certain aspects of teaching, such as organizing workshops, working in a community setting (e.g. community music), working with schoolchildren or writing a method or lesson plan.

Entrepreneurship introduces students to an important component that will play a part in his/her future career. They will design their own individual project representing all aspects of the profession, including project-based methodology, giving presentations, networking, organizational skills, identity investigation and financial management

Programme structure

Year	Semester	Course	Credits
1	1	Orientation in studies and career	1
2	2	Introduction to Music Education and Methodology	1
2	n.t.b.	Presentation of Music Business & Career	1
3	1	Music Education 1	1
3	2	Music Education 2	2
3	1 en 2	Methodology en Internship	3
3	2	Music Business & Career	9

Orientation in studies and career

In the first semester of the first year, students receive guidance from senior students (mentors) in organizing their study (enrolment, study skills, networking, etc.), the ins and outs of life in Amsterdam (jam sessions, concert venues, housing, etc.) and a short Introduction, which covers such topics as hearing protection, injury prevention, organizing the study, and a basic course to prepare them for the professional world.

Introduction to Music Education and Methodology

This course takes place in the second half of the second year. It introduces general principles from psychology and educational sciences to provide basic knowledge of human behavior. This knowledge will be applied to teaching music by using videos, discussions, and assignments. We will discuss topics such as communication, how to give feedback, cognitive development, learning theories, how to prepare a music lesson, and motivation.

Assessment:

- 80% attendance (extra assignments in case of missing more than 20 % of lessons)
- 3 assignments, all of which must be graded as sufficient

In the third year students will follow the Music Education, Methodology and Internship courses.

Music Education 1

In Music Education 1, students learn to lead their own band (band coaching). The learning theories from the introduction course will be put into practice: didactics and communication skills. The course covers teaching group and ensemble lessons. The course is taught in an ensemble setting. Band leaders work on a rotational basis and coach students on works they perform in rehearsals. Particular emphasis will be placed on flexibility and the consistent application of various didactic methods.

Various forms of learning will be covered, as will a number of learning styles. Other topics include memory, intelligence and talent. The course will also focus on several communication principles, including:

- * observation and interpretation,
- * non-verbal behaviour,
- * listening,
- * summarizing
- * giving feedback.

Assessment: participation in the lessons and a practical exam.

Music Education 2

In the second part of the Music Education course students choose one out of six profiles:

Profile 1: Band coaching part two

You are going to lead different ensembles, including a preliminary year ensemble, an amateur pop band, and an amateur jazz ensemble. You choose three different bands to lead. It is possible to continue after Christmas break.

Teacher: Diego Asenjo

Class size: max. 12 students

Exam: 20 minute test lesson

Profile 2: Rotation ensemble

In twelve lessons you will learn to play other instruments in a pop setting. The objective of this profile is to develop your basic bass, drums, guitar and vocal skills, in order to be able to coach pop bands in the future. One of the band members will be the band coach and will teach the band a pop song or pop style, the others play one of the pop band instruments. This rotates every week.

For whom: students who have no or little basic skills on other instruments.

Teacher: René Brijker

Class size: max. 8 students per band

Exam: rotation ensemble concert

Profile 3: Internship on location

You will visit and observe different lesson locations outside the CvA. The internship must include an 'observation internship' as well as an active internship during which you will teach. At least one of the internships should be outside your comfort zone, for instance an age group you feel uncomfortable with or an unusual group size you feel uncomfortable with.

In the first (group) lesson you will get some assistance with finding internships and locations.

Teacher: Maartje Meijer

Class size: max. 12 students

Exam: writing a report and an oral presentation before the group

Profile 4: Music Psychology

In this course you will learn about various psychological subjects that have a connection with music, such as being a musician, jazz music in our society and more philosophical issues. The first part consists of interactive lessons on topics including talent, creativity, group processes, stage fright, communication, memory, aesthetics, intelligence and learning, all related to music and other art forms.

In the second part you will choose a subject, do some research, and give a presentation.

There will be a lot of opportunity for discussion.

Teacher: Bodhi Sykora

Class size: max. 10 students per group

Exam: assignments and presentation

Profile 5: Private teaching practice

In this profile you will learn the skills you need to set up your own teaching practice. Step by step you will develop a feasible business plan for a private teaching practice. Additionally, you will learn how to promote yourself as a music teacher.

Teacher: Bodki Sykora

Class size: max. 12 students

Exam: presentation of your own lesson and business plan

Profile 6: Creativity

This profile focuses on contemporary and historical notions, processes and methods with regard to creativity. The course is made up of two parts. Part 1 addresses the topic from an historical and contemporary perspective. In the second part students carry out an individual research project, which will be presented in the final lesson.

Teacher: Sander van Maas

Class size: max. 8 students

Exam: assignments, written exam and individual research project

Methodology and Internship

The subjects of Methodology and Internship are combined in one course.

In the Methodology course, students will

- * focus on instrument building and history,
- * analyse multiple jazz methods,
- * present their own papers on specific topics,
- * design a lesson plan for advanced students (first ten lessons) and
- * develop their own teacher profile.

Assessment: oral discussion of student's own curriculum framework.

Conclusion of instrument building and history: written test and listening test.

Additional option: presentation using an e-learning video.

The internship involves a small group of instrumentalists giving lessons to an amateur pupil. The internship will consist of several students giving private lessons on their own instruments to an individual pupil for a short time. This activity will be overseen by the internship teacher.

Structure: the students are divided into groups by principal subject; each group will give lessons to one or more internship pupils, free of charge.

The students in a particular group will set up a joint lesson plan and take turns teaching the pupil. The teachers' observations will serve to guide the process.

Assessment: twenty-minute-long mock lesson. Both the group as a whole and the individual students will be assessed.

Music Business & Career

This module starts in the second year in which two informative meetings of 1 hour each will take place, and an assignment which is discussed in the second meeting.

The Music Business & Career programme starts in the second semester of the third year. Students take their first steps in drawing up a project plan (a business plan). Each student is responsible for his/her own project. Teaching in this semester is practically oriented and project-based with a great deal of individual input from the student. Guest teachers will be invited to discuss business aspects of the professional world. The Music Business & Career programme is supported by the website www.beroepkunstenaar.nl.

The main objective of Music Business & Career is to teach students the entrepreneurial skills they will need in the professional music world. Several qualities that will be developed are teamwork, leadership, knowledge of project management, knowledge of recent developments, specializations in one's own field, the arts sector and the Internet, knowledge and skills relating to promotion, finances and law, and establishing oneself as a performer. Students will be guided by a personal mentor.

In the 2nd semester of the 3rd year the project is finalized and the student follows other obligatory modules.

The course is finished in May/June with a presentation of the project which includes a PowerPoint slideshow.

After the project has been concluded, students will complete a component in which a mentor helps them organize and prepare for the final examination. The conclusion of this course is integrated with the practical final examination.
